

Protect your roof from the harmful effects of grease, oils and chemicals.

If your building has a restaurant, commercial kitchen, or an industrial operation that vents fume hoods to the roof, then grease and other substances in that airstream must be managed to prevent roof damage and personnel injuries.

What's at stake?

Grease, will degrade roof membranes, create slip & fall hazards, and accelerate a fire. You need to take grease seriously and prevent problems by installing and maintaining appropriate grease guards.

How GRS will help:

The goal is to keep your rooftop safe and clean. We'll evaluate the systems exhausting on your roof and propose specific solutions.

Our services and benefits include:

- Evaluate roof exhaust systems
- Prevent grease from impeding drainage systems
- Prevent slippery conditions that cause slips & fall accidents, liability or workers compensation claims
- Limit fire hazards from grease build-up
- Protect the surrounding environment from grease or chemical contamination

Why choose GRS?

We've dealt with grease for decades, preventing roof damage and slip injuries. Our OSHA trained teams understand the proper processes to install and maintain grease guards on any roof.

Built on safety, quality, and craftsmanship

Established in 1992 in Worcester, Massachusetts, Greenwood Industries is now one of the Top 10 commercial roofing and building envelope systems contractors in the United States.

With locations across the Northeast and more than 1,000 people on the job today, we have the capacity and the expertise to perform at any scale. We are signatory to 17 union contracts, because we value the integrity of skilled labor and are committed to providing jobs that sustain families and communities.

Greenwood began on the roof, the heritage of three generations of roofers in our founder's family. Today we are a full-service roof and building envelope company, with engineering, installation, and service divisions, plus our own metal fabrication shops.

The Greenwood group also includes TWC Phoenix, the regional leader in the fields of waterproofing, air/vapor barriers, masonry services and more.

Whether it's one building or an entire campus, Greenwood Industries is ready to serve your building envelope needs from design to installation and ongoing service.
