

Rooftop accessories need care

Your roof is an integrated system with accessories and penetrations that can't be overlooked.

The details make all the difference

Proper flashing details, walkway protection, safety enhancements and other details will maximize the performance and lifespan of your busy roof landscape.

How GRS will help:

We will evaluate the accessories on your roof, address any deficiencies and recommend proactive measures to protect the roof and utility of accessories. Services include:

- Evaluate and improve dunnage and overburden protection.
- Install or replace slip sheets as needed under rooftop accessories.
- Designate restricted pedestrian paths and install walk pads to protect a working rooftop.
- Evaluate crossovers, work platforms, and routine maintenance locations.
- Install pipe guards as needed. Protection supports made to sit on a roof's surface to hold your roof dunnage in place.
- Inspect and repair flashing around roof top units (RTUs). Make sure RTUs are properly skirted with metal locking the membrane into the curb.

Why choose GRS?

Roof work is different. Untrained people using the wrong tools, materials or processes will damage roof membranes and structures. Our OSHA trained service teams are certified to work on all major commercial roof systems.

Built on safety, quality, and craftsmanship

Established in 1992 in Worcester, Massachusetts, Greenwood Industries is now one of the Top 10 commercial roofing and building envelope systems contractors in the United States.

With locations across the Northeast and more than 1,000 people on the job today, we have the capacity and the expertise to perform at any scale. We are signatory to 17 union contracts, because we value the integrity of skilled labor and are committed to providing jobs that sustain families and communities.

Greenwood began on the roof, the heritage of three generations of roofers in our founder's family. Today we are a full-service roof and building envelope company, with engineering, installation, and service divisions, plus our own metal fabrication shops. The Greenwood group also includes TWC Phoenix, the regional leader in the fields of waterproofing, air/vapor barriers, masonry services and more.

Whether it's one building or an entire campus, Greenwood Industries is ready to serve your building envelope needs from design to installation and ongoing service.

About Greenwood Building Envelope Services
