

Shedding light on a solar roof project

Solar means thousands of new anchors and heavy mechanical structures added to your roof. We will help guide your solar project right from the start so you achieve the benefits you expect without damaging the roof.

Protect your roof warranty

Solar systems can make sense financially, so long as they don't void your roof warranty. GRS solar experts will evaluate your roof warranty and the warranties of the solar components to ensure alignment.

How GRS will help:

We will work closely with you and your solar provider to guide the installation process, start to finish. Services include:

- Roof warranty compliance. We will work with the system manufacturers to ensure your roof stays warranted.
- Installation of anchors and support equipment approved by warranted roof systems manufacturer.
- Proper flashing of mechanical attachments with manufacturers warranted material.
- Post installation inspections.
- Insure manufacturer signs off on continued warranty coverage based on meeting their system standards and utilizing Greenwood as the certified system installer.
- If a ballasted solar system, we will utilize approved manufacturer membrane for slip sheet protection under ballast trays.

Why choose GRS?

Even the best solar systems providers are not expert commercial roofers. Greenwood is a certified installer with all major warranted roof systems. When you work with us, you will enhance your building's environmental sustainability and not lessen its value or protection by voiding a roof's warranty.

Built on safety, quality, and craftsmanship

Established in 1992 in Worcester, Massachusetts, Greenwood Industries is now one of the Top 10 commercial roofing and building envelope systems contractors in the United States.

With locations across the Northeast and more than 1,000 people on the job today, we have the capacity and the expertise to perform at any scale. We are signatory to 17 union contracts, because we value the integrity of skilled labor and are committed to providing jobs that sustain families and communities.

Greenwood began on the roof, the heritage of three generations of roofers in our founder's family. Today we are a full-service roof and building envelope company, with engineering, installation, and service divisions, plus our own metal fabrication shops. The Greenwood group also includes TWC Phoenix, the regional leader in the fields of waterproofing, air/vapor barriers, masonry services and more.

Whether it's one building or an entire campus, Greenwood Industries is ready to serve your building envelope needs from design to installation and ongoing service.

About Greenwood Building Envelope Services
